

Fund Review The Fund returned (6.9%) in September. In comparison, the TSX Venture index and TSX Total Return index returned (6.2%) and (3.7%) respectively during the month.

Canadian small cap markets performed poorly in September in what has been a string of five consecutive losing months for the TSX Venture. However, October is off to a positive start, rebounding in conjunction with the major indices.

Tina Byers, Associate Portfolio Manager, recently completed her first video interview with SmallCapPower.com in which she discussed a couple of our favourite positions, Breaking Data (TSXV:BKD) and Neutrisci International (TSXV:NU). This video can be accessed by clicking here. These two companies are on the cusp of generating revenue. Our models indicate that they should both become profitable in 2016. It is at these inflection points where companies transition from concept to revenue generation and profitability that there is typically a significant revaluation.

Sintana Energy (TSXV:SEI) performed well over the month of September. The stock more than tripled over a few weeks in anticipation of initial well results in the Magdalena Basin in Colombia. The company released a status update with positive early indications on the well, and the thickness of the pay zones appear to be much better than expected. We expect to receive further data on the well in the coming months and believe that the company is worth many multiples of where the shares are currently trading, even using conservative estimates.

Current sector allocations are as follows: 50% technology, 16% life sciences, 7% consumer products, 2% energy, 1% precious metals and 24% base metals.

Outlook Equity markets have continued to play out as we expected since the capitulation low in August. A successful "retest" of the August low occurred in "textbook" fashion five weeks later, in the last week of September. This gives us increased confidence that our bullish portfolio positioning is the right call. TSX earnings have been pulled into negative growth territory for 2015 by high downward revisions in the energy and materials sectors. We expect a cyclical recovery over the next two years resulting in double digit earnings growth for both 2016 and 2017. This is currently reflected in consensus forecasts. Periods of healthy and accelerating earnings growth provide a strong backdrop for equities.

We believe that the long awaited rally in Canadian small cap equities will start to unfold as broader markets rally and we enter a period of seasonal strength for small caps. The best performing months for the TSX Venture index are December/February/January, in that order. We believe that accelerating global growth, cheap valuations, M&A and improving investor sentiment will be catalysts to higher share prices in the coming months.

Regards,

Steven Palmer, CFA
President and CEO

Investment Strategy

The AlphaNorth Partners Fund Inc. (the "Fund") is a long-biased, small cap hedge fund which focuses primarily on Canadian companies. The Fund's investment objective is to maximize returns over the long term through superior selection of principally Canadian securities. AlphaNorth believes that superior long term investment returns are achievable by exploiting inefficiencies in the Canadian small cap universe through careful security selection on both a long and short basis. Fundamental analysis of companies is used in combination with technical analysis techniques, which has proven to be successful, to assist in the timing of buy/sell decisions. The firm combines both a bottom-up and top-down strategy in the selection of investments offering the best risk/reward characteristics.
