

Fund Review In April, the Fund returned 3.7%, as compared to the TSX Venture index and TSX Total Return index, which returned 2.9% and (1.8%) respectively during the month. We are pleased to have returned a 5th successive positive monthly return while also exceeding our benchmark each month.

Our biotech holdings were particularly strong during the month of April with two holdings appreciating by nearly 100% during the month. The biotech holdings which we purchased several months ago have generated substantial gains. We have started to lock in a portion of these gains in recent weeks. The proceeds will be re-allocated to our pipeline of new investments which we believe offer superior risk/reward metrics.

Despite continued robust metal prices, commodity stocks have lagged. These detracted from performance during the month of April.

We continue to maintain some short exposure via a position in the Microsectors FANG+ Index 3x Inverse (NYSE:FNGD). The FANG+ index is comprised of 10 highly traded U.S. growth stocks. These will provide a modest hedge and reduce the volatility of portfolio returns if equities were to correct.

Current sector allocations are as follows: 26% technology, 28% life sciences, 4% consumer, 6% precious metals, 24% metals, 3% energy, 3% warrants and 6% shorts.

Outlook The TSX Venture index, although trending higher since bottoming in November 2023, has had subdued returns until recent days gaining only 22.5% since that time, generally matching the returns of the broad equity indices (TSX/S&P/NASDAQ). Commodity prices have continued to be strong, supporting the case for higher small cap equity prices. The TSXV is comprised of 55% resource issuers by value. We are encouraged that two of the major commodities, gold and copper, continue to hit new all-time highs. This has prompted a shift in sentiment. After a three year bear market for the TSXV, we have observed that sophisticated investors are positioned in small cap in anticipation of a bull market. These investors will be the first beneficiaries of the bull market. As is typically the case, the majority of investors will miss the first 100% or so. Volume and value traded on the TSXV has remained anemic but this is beginning to change. The TSXV recently had the highest volume day in more than a year. This is evidence of the changing sentiment.

After managing small cap equity funds through the previous four cycles, it is quite clear to us what is about to unfold. We have been encouraging investors to increase Canadian small cap exposure for months. We have called equities correctly. Our strategy has been the best way, from a fund perspective, to participate in a Canadian small cap bull market historically. The average return for the past four TSXV bull markets has been +218% while we have returned 665%.

Investment Strategy

The AlphaNorth Partners Fund Inc. (the "Fund") is a long-biased, small cap hedge fund which focuses primarily on Canadian companies. The Fund's investment objective is to maximize returns over the long term through superior selection of principally Canadian securities. AlphaNorth believes that superior long term investment returns are achievable by exploiting inefficiencies in the Canadian small cap universe through careful security selection on both a long and short basis. Fundamental analysis of companies is used in combination with technical analysis techniques, which has proven to be successful, to assist in the timing of buy/sell decisions. The firm combines both a bottom-up and top-down strategy in the selection of investments offering the best risk/reward characteristics.
